First Sunday of Advent:

Readings : Isaiah 63: 16b-17; 64:1, 3-8; Psalm 80; 1corinthians 1:3 -9; Mark 13: 33-37

As we prepare for Christmas this year we are really preparing for two things; the first of course is the seasonal celebration of the birth of the child Jesus (God coming into the world); the second is the coming of Jesus at the end of time. At once our preparations are both familiar and challenging.

We of course have prepared for the celebration of Christmas. Growing up it was my favorite time of the year, filled with festivities and family traditions. Who didn't look forward to Christmas? At the same time we are challenged to be prepared for his coming at an unknown time. It has been said that God doesn't want calculation so much as he wants vigilance. Jesus' parable of the man going away and placing his servants in charge very much reflects Jesus and his Church. He had already delegated authority to the apostles and entrusted them with his work. Peter can be seen as the gatekeeper who assumes the greatest responsibility with providing the suitable welcome for the Lord.

In our 1st reading the prophet Isaiah recognizes the need for God, things were not going as they should – God has 'hidden his face' from his people "O that you would tear open the heavens and come down".

The people have lost their way – they need God's presence. Those who gladly do right and remember the Lord and his Way need to be reminded and strengthened. To recognize that we are clay and that the Lord is the potter - we are all the work of his hand. At the same time we require tenderness and compassion.

The psalm recognizes that Israel was in need of restoration. Our salvation requires God's presence and his active concern for us. Three times the author calls upon God to "restore us". This restoration requires repentance and humility on our part. To receive forgiveness, it helps us to see ourselves more clearly.

In the First Letter to the Corinthians Paul gives thanks for the graces they have already received and prayers that God will complete the work he has already begun in them. That he will strengthen them to the end and that they will be found "blameless" on the day of the Lord. Reminding us that we are called to fellowship with our Lord Jesus Christ.

True faith in Jesus begins with thanksgiving that like the Corinthians before us we recognize our spiritual gifts and what God wishes to accomplish through them. One of the problems that beset the Corinthians was that they began arguing over which of the gifts was more important.

Jesus tells us that we do not know when he is coming again, but it is near and we are called to persevere, be watchful and alert. Looking around us as the gatekeeper, we do not want to be found sleeping, but just as we know there are 37 sleeps until Christmas, there will be even more sleeps before the second coming. The point is not to be distracted from our final goal.

The 13th chapter of Mark's Gospel is all about how to live in the expectation of Christ's coming. Study God's word and live by its instructions; 1) Do not be led by idle speculation. 2) Do not be afraid to tell people about Jesus in spite of possible negative reactions. 3) Stand firm in faith and do not be surprised by persecutions. Morally alert, obedient to the commandments and found living God's word will allow us to welcome Jesus at the end of time realizing that judgement isn't something to be feared, but what allows us to enter into the fullness of God's life.

Fr. Patrick

This year our parish goal is $160,000.
