4th Sunday in Lent (Laetare Sunday)

Readings 2 Chronicles 36:14-17a, 19-23; Psalm 137: 1-6; Ephesians 2: 4-10; John 3: 14-21

God So Loved the world

Laetare is a Latin word meaning rejoice – Rejoice Jerusalem! Today we are invited to move back from the austerity of our Lenten practices to reflect on God's love for us. This is not a new love, it is implicit in creation, but today we make it explicit in our response of faith.

King Zedekiah refused to listen to God's warning to him through the prophets which makes him and all of Judah liable to God's judgement which leads to the Babylonian exile. King Nebuchadnezzar breaks through the walls of Jerusalem and destroys the temple, taking the people into exile. But God through the prophet Jeremiah announces that the exile would end after 70 years. His word is effective and after Cyrus, King of Persia, defeats the Babylonians he fulfills the prophecy by commissioning the Jews to return to Jerusalem and rebuild the temple. God does not take his love away. While our refusal to listen to him has real consequences in our life, he is always ready to share his love with us.

In the wilderness the people rebelled against God. As punishment he sent poisonous snakes among them, but He also provided a remedy. He has Moses fashion a bronze image of a snake on a pole and lifted it up. All who looked on the image in faith were healed (saved!) Jesus says that, "the Son of Man must be lifted up, that all who look at him in faith will be saved." This is the first of three times that he makes this statement. This lifting up has two meanings; 1) that Jesus is lifted up on the cross physically and 2) that Jesus is lifted up – he is exalted.

At the core of John's (and all Christian) theology is the conviction that God's love is the dynamic principle for world salvation. God has gifted the world with his own son, not to condemn it, but that it may be saved. "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, so that everyone who believes in him may not perish but may have eternal life." Jn.3:16 The world, in particular it's human inhabitants, is the object of God's love. The world also becomes symbolic of those who refuse God's love – who refuse to believe.

Human actions play a part in salvation. Our response is essential. Light becomes symbolic of good work while the dark reflects evil works. St. Augustine says, "(People) love the truth for the light it sheds, but hate it when shows them up as being wrong." We have a choice. To come into the light of God's love, or to remain in the darkness. The light exposes sin, sin so that we may be forgiven. The Father's love never diminishes. Those who do not believe in God's love avoid the light and remain trapped in guilt and condemnation of their sin. God's love is available to everyone. Allow him to scatter your darkness and enter into a deeper experience of his love. This is what Lent is all about.

St. Paul recognizes the God of mercy in Christ Jesus. God is rich in mercy, he even offers salvation to the Gentiles while they are dead in trespass, that they may be alive in Jesus Christ and raises them to be seated with him. Salvation is God's free gift of immeasurable value. It comes through faith, not self effort, so we cannot boast as if it were our own. In Christ Jesus we are made for good works - we become part of God's plan for salvation. We are not saved merely for our own benefit, we are called to serve Christ and to build up his Church. We are called to be people of gratitude, as we owe everything to God.

Let us spend this week contemplating God's love for us and our world, thanking God and asking him how we can more fully respond to his love and advance the salvation he has planned for us and all those around us.

Fr. Patrick.
